Dani,

Any items on the Commission agenda are open to the public. The business agendas of the Commission are posted daily (24-hour advanced notice requirement) and are available on the Callaway County website <https://callawaycounty.org/commission/>.

You asked about me:

I have 3 grown children, all raised here in Callaway County, and no grandchildren yet. That is part of why I ran for the Commission office - I am by my nature and profession a planner, and I want to protect the future of our county for my grandchildren-yet-come, for your grandchildren, and many generations to come.

You asked about benefits:

The local benefits of the data centers center around requiring the data center developers to maintain a minimum number of jobs and to pay taxes. These two points are highly contentious in public comment and highly negotiable when talking with data center developers. The jobs are required to be maintained in order to qualify for tax abatements. The taxes that these data centers do pay may be used to fund local school districts, local fire districts, community improvement projects, public protection projects, and other projects to promote the growth and financial stability of the county for many years to come.

Are the trade-offs worth the data center presence...? The Commission is working hard to educate ourselves, evaluate data center construction and operations from around the country in the attempt to determine the detailed impacts on our county, specifically. In order to make sound decisions, the Commission needs factual, specific data about our situation. Not all data centers are alike - they are constantly evolving in technology used in their construction and cooling systems.

Until Callaway-specific project facts are made known - to this Commission and to the public, there can be no meaningful discussions that will foster a fertile decision-making environment. Until that time, discussions can only contain generalities which may possibly have little or no basis in any proposed Callaway County project.

Thank you for your concern and for your input.

Christopher,

Thank you for your response! I don't know that I need to discuss much more at this point.

Will discussions about this data center be open to the public? From what I understand, many have been approved in other communities under the nose of their residents.

Forgive me, commissioner, as I do not know much about you. For example, I do not know if you have children or grandchildren. I personally have three young children; the oldest is just wrapping up her last week of kindergarten, and the youngest is on the cusp of learning to walk, turning one this summer.

Naturally, I want the best for my kids and am passionate about securing the best future as possible for them. It sounds like these data centers are not in the best interests of the communities they are placed into, and will instead tax finite resources. Are there local benefits that I am unaware of?

With Gratitude,

Dani Stratton

Subject: Data Center concerns in Callaway County

Dear Commissioners,

I am a resident of Fulton, MO and I am writing to formally express my opposition to the proposed (and future proposals of) data center project(s) in Callaway County.

While I support economic development, I believe this specific project poses significant risks to our community.

My concerns include:

1. Environmental Impact: The potential for excessive water consumption and noise pollution from cooling systems and generators.
2. Grid Reliability: The immense energy demands could cause utility rates to rise for local residents.
3. Land Use: This project does not align with the rural/residential character of our area, disrupting agricultural land and local wildlife.

While these facilities provide tax revenue, they are intense industrial users that require careful regulation to be "good neighbors". At a minimum, please consider the following when evaluating new proposals:

- * Mandating noise mitigation: Restricting chiller operations to meet noise limits at property lines.
- * Environmental Protection: Prohibiting projects in floodplains or areas with high water tables, and regulating water and electric usage such that it does not impact the availability or costs of these basic utilities for the citizens of the surrounding communities.
- * Thermal Pollution Study: Evaluating the impact of "heat domes" on surrounding agriculture.

I urge the commission to reject this proposal or, at minimum, institute a moratorium to conduct a comprehensive impact study.

Sincerely,

Dani Stratton
